Vocations... What could convince someone to turn to God? The story that God became human? The story that Jesus cured the sick? The story that Jesus forgave sin? The story that Jesus rose from the dead? Or, perhaps, the story of the witness of your own life! If you have the continuing inclination that God is calling you to be a priest, religious or deacon, call Fr. Matt McCarthy, Vocation Director, Archdiocese of Toronto at 416-968-0997 vocations@archtoronto.org / www.vocationstoronto.ca

Archdiocesan Week of Prayer for Vocations Apr 19-24

During this week, Fr. Matt McCarthy, Director of Vocations, has asked that we all take some time, as a community, to pray for vocations to the priesthood, religious and consecrated life.

At this time, we also ask that you pray for our 6 soon-to-be priests along with all those who are discerning and who are currently in formation. For more information, please email the Office of Vocations at vocations@archtoronto.org

Communion Reflection... Home is where we experience our deepest belonging. Other places are fine for a change or for a while; but sooner or later, our steps turn back to that comforting realm where we find our truest peace. Easter is the ambitious season in which returning to God is the goal of all our efforts. We may have wandered a short distance or a long way from our heart's true home. Yet we remain dissatisfied until we're on the road of return. Augustine says it best in his Confessions: "Our hearts are restless until they rest in You." This is why each year we're summoned to fulfill what's popularly known as our Easter duty, but is formally known as the "Eucharistic Precept" of the church. Since the sixth century, Catholics have been obliged to received the Eucharist at least once annually between Palm Sunday and Pentecost Sunday. Since that proved impossible for many last year, the obligation was lifted. We each found our way home nonetheless—even if we have to beat a new path to the door.

It's easy to convince ourselves that we're good people. Rarely do we meet anyone who believes otherwise of themselves. We're good because we hear about folks who do horrific things in the news every day, and we don't do those things. Also, we all have someone in our intimate circle who provides us with a favourable contrast: the alcoholic parent, the philandering sibling, the insensitive spouse, the pilfering coworker. We're not like that. So we must be good. We're good because: We go to church. We send cheques to charities. We pay our bills. We floss. We call our mothers. However good we imagine we are, it's important to keep in mind that's only half the story. The tax collector was in possession of the most useful piece. He knew he was dependent on God's mercy above all. Let us pray, God of mercy, thank you for your forgiveness, which covers all my sins.

This weekend is ShareLife Sunday!

“Vulnerable members of our community are relying on you and me to ensure ongoing access to the care they so desperately need. This is why it’s crucial we meet our campaign goal of $13.8 million. Our goal can be met, but only if we each do our part.”

~ Cardinal Thomas Collins

Our Parish goal is $ 55,200

Provide-A-Meal... The last weekend of the month is our Chili Collection for The Good Shepherd. Pans and recipes are available on the porch of the house at St. John’s Church. Over 1300 meals and snacks are served every day. Your generosity is giving suffering people the gift of presence – a place where their voices can be heard, where their human dignity is acknowledged.

One of the privileges I have as a priest is to be invited into the final days of someone’s life. At that point, most people drop all the pretense and live authentically.

They focus on telling stories and sharing memories that say, “This is who I really am; this is how I want you to remember me.” At the Last Supper, Jesus had one last chance to say to his disciples, “This is who I really am; this is how I want you to remember me.” A teacher true to his word, Jesus made himself vulnerable and approachable. As the disciples shared their last meal with Jesus, their minds flooded with memories of the sick being healed, the weak gaining strength, outcasts being welcomed, the dying knowing peace, and sinners being given a fresh start. When you die, how do you want to be remembered? You’re creating those memories right now. So focus on living a meaningful life so people will talk kindly of you long after you are gone.

Have a Blessed Week!!

Pope Francis @Pontifex... Jesus is the Risen One, the Lord who passed through death in order to lead us to safety. Even before we begin to seek Him, He is present beside us. He lifts us back up after our falls. He helps us grow in faith.
