Communion Reflection...

An artist was commissioned to portray the parable of the prodigal son. So he chose that part of the story where the wayward son returns home after having wasted his inheritance in reckless living. The artist depicted the father standing by the gate waiting for the son, who could be seen approaching in the distance. When the artist showed the painting to a friend, the man exclaimed, "Oh no, you don't have it right at all! The father shouldn't be standing still, he should be eagerly running to meet his son!" "But no father would ever consider doing that to one who had been so wayward," answered the artist in surprise. "Ah" said the friend, "but this parable depicts the heart of God. He is far more loving than even the best of human parents." How God loves us! Our Father loves us more than we can ever imagine. We don't know what heaven is like, but I do know we will receive a love that we have never experienced. Heaven is being in God's presence—God who is love.

When I was a child, I was often afraid of the dark. My parents then would hear me call out, more like scream, and they would come running. When they asked me what was wrong, I said, "I'm scared. The dark is too big." So they would put a night-light on for me to soften my fears of the night. I don't need that night light anymore. I have Jesus. They say that fear and dread come in three forms: some fears are imagined; some are warning signals to be cautious; and some are caused by things very real. Whatever it is that causes concern, the truth never changes: "If God is for us, who is against us?" Enough said.

Sept. 16 - Feast of St. Cornelius

Pope & Martyr. St. Cornelius was elected Pope in 251 AD during the persecutions of the Emperor Decius. His first challenge, besides the ever present threat of the Roman authorities, was to bring an end to the schism brought on by his rival, the first anti-pope Novatian. He convened a synod of bishops to confirm him as the rightful successor of Peter. The great controversy that arose as a result of the Decian persecution was whether or not the Church could pardon and receive back into the Church those who had apostacized (denied their faith) in the face of martyrdom. Against both the bishops who argued that the Church could not welcome back apostates, and those who argued that they should be welcomed back but did not demand a heavy penance of the penitent, Cornelius decreed that they must be welcomed back and insisted that they perform an adequate penance. In 253 AD Cornelius was exiled by the emperor Gallus and died of the hardships he endured in exile. He is venerated as a martyr.
